IN BIG BEAR VALLEY

CHIEF HERALD TELLS OF COOL RETREAT FOUND IN THE HIGH SIERRAS

While the good people in Glendale were sweltering in almost tropical heat, Chief Herald was enjoying a pleasant vacation among the high Sierras. "No one can imagine the peace and repose of the beautiful valleys among the everlasting mountains," said the chief to a representative of the Glendale Evening News, unless he has been there and enjoyed that restful atmosphere.

"Leaving Glendale two weeks ago, with Mrs. Herald and my two boys, we motored to San Bernardino, the route to which, beautiful as it is, is familiar to all residents here. The real change in scenery began from that point. Starting up Santa Ana canyon, we began the ascent to what is known as The Summit. The aspect of the country is that of the desert. Mesquite, manzanita, sagebrush, greasewood, cacti of all kinds, showed up all round us. Now and then might be heard the rattle of the rattler, of which there are many this year. As the road began to ascend, it became more and more steep. We passed over what are known as the "switchbacks," where the road winds upward in a series of spirals and can be seen as one goes up winding round and round below. There are six miles of this ascent.

"As the summit is neared the road begins to enter the big pine region and one feels the altitude. The atmosphere there even at noon is quite cool, but that is not astonishing, as The Summit is 7500 feet above the level of the sea.

"We passed Clark's ranch a few miles from The Summit. That is an ordinary ranch, making a living in the usual manner and diligently cultivating the occasional patches of very rich black loam that make it possible to obtain fair crops even at that elevation.

"Leaving The Summit we descended into the Big Bear valley, passing numerous mountain streams, clear as crystal and swarming with trout. Finally we arrived at our destination, the government forest reservation, on the shores of the Big Bear lake. This lake is the old crater of an extinct volcano. It is extraordinarily deep and is said at some points to have defied all attempts to get soundings. It is beautifully clear, being formed from mountain springs and the melting snow and ice, which is still on the summits farther up. The lake is ten miles long and two miles wide.

"Last year the government hatcheries placed 1,000,000 trout in this lake and some of the adjoining streams. It is therefore full of trout, having also the natural increase of the trout native to the region. We had great luck catching trout, getting as many as we could conveniently use.

"As I have said, the valley is a government reserve and the lake is controlled by the government, but the Bear Valley Water company, which supplies water to San Bernardino, some time ago built a dam which raised the level of the lake seven feet and backed the water up to the trees. When that happens the government gives the right to cut the trees and thousands of feet of fine lumber have been cut all round. A great part of the cutting is done during winter when the lake is frozen. The trees are cut off under the ice and the logs taken down to the mill that has been erected there.

"A large cattle ranch is close to the lake. This is known as the "I. S." ranch, which letters also are the brand of the ranch. It is probably the last of the great cattle ranches in the country. There you can see the real cowboy, not the hero of the "movies," but the real everyday article, hard at work, branding cattle, cutting out steers and generally carrying out the work of the round-up. We saw a round-up while we were there and it was extremely interesting. About 1200 calves were branded with the "I. S." brand.

"As those who have lived at the higher altitudes can tell you, the day starts early and by 8 or 9 o'clock at night, after a day on the lake or among the hills, one is ready to sleep. The balmy air laden with the odoriferous and health-giving scent of the pines, disposes the camper for sleep and nothing can equal the soothing effect of this atmosphere on tired nerves.

MOVES IN THE WAR

J. W. MASON SAYS TEUTONIC ATTACK ON RUSSIA IS BEGINNING TO WEAKEN

(Special Correspondence)

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The German offensive in Poland is being effectively checked on both flanks and indications are abundant that the Teutonic attack is weakening. Field Marshal von Hindenburg, particularly, is not doing the work to which he was assigned. The Russians have rallied in exceptional strength against him, not only because he threatens Riga and the entire Baltic coast, but also threatens to isolate Petrograd should he be successful.

Shortage of ammunition is now hampering the Germans. Novo, Kovno and Georgiewsk continue to hold out, although neither of these fortresses has the resisting power possessed by Antwerp.

The Teutons are unquestionably storing their new ammunition to resist a possible offensive on the West. The Galician drive and the capture of Warsaw used up most of the winter and spring accumulation of munitions and not even the Germans can produce ammunition as quickly as it is shot.

Intervals of comparative inactivity are necessary to permit the munition factories to catch up. One is now happening in Russia. The Germans are waiting for shells and simultaneously must subordinate the eastern demands to the necessity of increasing the reserve along the western front.

The Russians must be praised for the stubbornness they have shown in resisting the Germans. There is no evidence of demoralization and if the eastern conflict should be fought to a finish it is apparent the Teutons would be near exhaustion themselves at the end.

NECESSITY FOR A CITY PARK

The question of a city park has been much discussed. There are different opinions as to where a central park should be located and as to the amount of ground it should contain, but all agree that Glendale needs a park.

Sufficient ground purchased anywhere in Glendale at present value would be a good investment for the city. With the return of better times it is safe to say that property bought today would increase one-half within one year. That being the case, the city can afford to buy a reasonable amount of ground for such a purpose. Glendale now owns a lot on Broadway, where the fire station stands, between Louise and Kenwood streets. Adjoining the fire house on the east are three lots, 50x167 feet each, making a total frontage on Broadway of 170 feet, with 167 feet on Kenwood street, making a total of 28,390 square feet.

Glendale's population is about 8000, which would give an average of more than three and a half feet to each person. Now take for comparison the Central park of Los Angeles. That park measures 320x700 feet, making a total of 224,000 square feet, with a population of twice that number, which would average only about one-half of one square foot to each person. It may be said, however, that Los Angeles has other parks where people may gather. That is true, but that city has a floating population we do not have that more than offsets the other parks. The above mentioned ground for a park for Glendale is six times larger, according to population, than Central park is to Los Angeles for its population. These three lots can now be had for $16,000 if used for a park. That is $1500 less than they were one year ago. It has been suggested that a bandstand could be erected on the east side of the fire house which would afford shade in the afternoon.

Glendale should no longer postpone the acquisition of a park. It is not necessary that it should be large. San Diego has a small central park not one-half the size of the one mentioned above. We do not need a large one any more than San Diego does. The Glendale firemen and police say they will gladly keep such a park in order at their leisure if near by. The location referred to is the most central now available. The harder the times are, the more public spirited we should be. Let us all agree on this proposition; sanction the purchase of this ground and have a beauty spot in the center of the city.

LEO FRANK WAS LYNCHED BY HIS CAPTORS

BODY OF REPRIEVED MAN FOUND HANGING FROM A TREE NEAR MARIETTA, GEORGIA—THE MOB HEAPS INDIGNITIES ON CORPSE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

MARIETTA, Georgia, Aug. 17.—Leo Frank's body was found hanging to a tree near this city today. It was a ghastly sight. The wrists were handcuffed in front and the noose had reopened the recently healed wound in the neck, inflicted by the assassin who tried to murder Frank when in jail. There were no bullet wounds in the body, which was barefooted and clad only in rough prison night clothes.

Frank had been taken in an automobile by the men who broke into jail and took him out and had been conveyed 100 miles away from the site of the prison before being lynched. His body dangled from the tree until noon.

The news that Frank's body was hanging there caused a crowd of 5000 to assemble around it. Speeches were made under the tree. Part of the crowd wanted to mutilate the body. Several men spat on the face of the corpse as it was cut down. The body, however, was snatched away from the crowd, placed in an auto, and carried toward Atlanta, pursued by the mob riding in 200 automobiles.

BRITISH SHIP SUNK

Submarine Torpedoes Transport Near Dardanelles—Six Hundred Men Are Saved, but Probably a Thousand Perished

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, England, Aug. 17.—The admiralty announced today that the British transport, Royal Edward, which was formerly a Canadian Northern liner, had been sunk by a submarine near the Dardanelles. One thousand men probably perished. The official statement said that 600 men were saved. The vessel carried 1350 soldiers, 32 officers and a crew of 230.

STORM AT AN END

Galveston Reports Damage Amounting to One Million Dollars and That Five Were Killed During Tempest

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 17.—A wireless message from Galveston, Texas, today said that the worst of the storm was now over. It is believed that not more than five were killed in the course of the tempest. The damage done will not amount to more than about $1,000,000. Many small boats in the harbor were wrecked. The government transport McClellan broke away from its moorings and was damaged. The waters are now receding.

POWER FOR ARIZONA

James B. Girard Plans to Build Dams in the Grand Canon

Special Service to Glendale Evening News

Phoenix, Arizona, Aug. 17.—Six dams, reservoirs and power sites will soon be built in the Grand Canon, according to the plans of James B. Girard, city engineer, who has secured permission from the department of the Interior to conduct preliminary operations. He expects to develop 400,000 horsepower which will probably be used in the electrification of railroads and mines all over the state.

TRAPPED IN TUNNEL

Train Falls Through Trestle, Kills Four and Imprisons 100

Special Service to Glendale Evening News

Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 17.—Four were killed, many injured and 100 imprisoned in a tunnel on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad here today when an express train was derailed and fell through a trestle, inside the tunnel into an excavation under the track. Workmen are digging through the debris to rescue the imprisoned victims.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST

Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Pearson of 490 West Fifth street are entertaining their friend, Mrs. George H. Wallace, whose home for several years was in Melbourne, Australia. Mr. Wallace was appointed consul-general to Australia by President Harrison from Missouri, where he was engaged in the sheep and wool industry, and secretary of the National Wool Growers' association, making a special study of that industry in Australasia.

Mr. Wallace, whose early home was at Canton, Ohio, was later appointed secretary of the territory of New Mexico by President McKinley, and before the close of the term passed away at Santa Fe in the historic room of the old palacio where General Lew Wallace wrote "Ben Hur." Mrs. Wallace now resides at Toledo, Ohio.

CLOSING IN ON KOVNO

Russians Said to be Retreating to the New Line of Defenses

Vienna, Austria, Aug. 17.—It is officially announced here to day that the Germans and Austrians stormed and captured several forts around the Russian stronghold of Kovno. The Russians are apparently starting a retreat to a new line of defenses.

MAN SHOT IN TROPICO

What looks like a hold-up case was reported from Tropico Tuesday morning by Chief Gould, who stated that a man named William Case, residing at the corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway, Glendale, was shot in the breast about 1 a.m. at the corner of Acacia and Glendale avenue. Case was unable to give any further account of the shooting except that his assailant held him up. The wounded man was taken to the Tropico hospital, where he is doing as well as could be expected.

DEATH AT ENCAMPMENT

B. F. Patterson of 317 Belmont street returned Monday from Huntington Beach, where he spent several days at the G. A. R. encampment. Mr. Patterson helped to organize this encampment twenty-eight years ago. He says the attendance is excellent this year and the meeting of the old comrades is being much enjoyed.

However, Monday was a sad day in camp, as one of the comrades died very suddenly shortly after eating a hearty breakfast. Flags were draped at half mast and the day's program was dispensed with. This is the first death that has occurred at an encampment in all the twenty-eight years, which is quite remarkable.

CITY TRUSTEES MEET

POULTRY RAISERS OPPOSE PROPOSED ORDINANCE ON KEEPING OF CHICKENS

The regular meeting of the board of trustees of the city of Glendale was held in the city hall Monday evening, August 16, 1915. Present: O. A. Lane, president of the board, and Trustees Charles Grist, A. W. Tower, J. S. Thompson and George Williams. Also present: T. W. Watson, city manager; J. C. Sherer, city clerk; W. E. Evans, city attorney; H. B. Lynch, manager of the public service department; Edw. M. Lynch, city engineer; Geo. H. Herald, city marshal.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

A communication was read in which a Mr. Brown of Los Angeles protested against the installation of ornamental lights on Brand boulevard north of First. The communication did not state whether Mr. Brown is an owner of property in the district affected by the assessment. The communication was on motion ordered received and placed on file.

Mr. Evarts of Central avenue was present and addressed the board concerning the character of the cement work just completed on Central avenue near Hawthorne. He said the cement walls have large cracks in them and in addition to that the blocks have been stained by the covering that was placed over the walk at its completion.

City Engineer Lynch and members of the board of trustees said nobody had complained about the condition of the work and they supposed the work had been done in a first-class manner. They promised Mr. Evarts that the walk would be examined at once.

At the previous meeting of the city council an ordinance restricting the keeping of chickens and other animals within the city limits of Glendale was read for the first and second times, and as it was to be taken up for third and final reading at Monday evening's meeting, about fifty poultry breeders, men and women of Glendale, were present to show cause why such an ordinance should not be adopted.

An attack was made on three points in the ordinance:

First, the ordinance named thirty feet as the nearest distance that chickens would be allowed to be kept to any dwelling house.

Second, that it would be necessary for poultry breeders keeping more than fifty chickens to get a permit from the city trustees.

Third, that the fine for violating the ordinance might be $100 or imprisonment in jail for fifty days.

The poultry raisers present put forth the claim that it should not be necessary for them to make application for a permit for them to keep more than fifty chickens on their own premises, so long as sanitary conditions are right, and nobody has cause to object to the poultry plant as being a nuisance. Such a requirement it was suggested would only require extra help to be employed by the city to inspect chicken yards, and thus there would be an additional expense without anybody's being benefited.

One speaker said better encourage the keeping of more chickens in the city; chickens should be raised on the vacant lots where so many weeds are now growing.

Argument was produced showing that many people make a living from the earnings of poultry yards, and a strong plea was made to the board not to take any steps at present that will place an unnecessary burden upon people who can ill afford the additional expense.

City Manager Watson suggested that a committee be appointed among the poultry raisers who may confer with him in the preparation of an ordinance that will be satisfactory to all concerned.

The poultrymen then named the following committee who are to serve in the capacity suggested: Dr. Royce, Mrs. D. W. Root, John Holloway, J. A. Farrell, Walter Ross and N. E. Luce.

Mrs. Alice Clisbee of 348 North Columbus avenue, who was present, asked if a dog is considered as a domestic animal. She said if he is, then I am in trouble if the proposed ordinance is passed, for I have two dogs and both of them stay in the house at night, but the new ordinance will require me to chain them outside at least thirty feet away from the house. Mrs. Clisbee was informed that she could keep her dogs in the house if she so preferred.

A resolution was adopted ordering that certain improvements be made on Canada boulevard.

TIGERS WIN-13 TO 8

FANSETT PITCHES WHOLE GAME AND RECEIVES SPLENDID SUPPORT

One of the most interesting games in the series between the league teams was that of Monday between the Tigers and Central avenue playground team. There was a strong line-up on both sides. Fansett pitched the whole game for the Tigers and received splendid support from his teammates.

Billy Balthus, the well-known tennis star, played an errorless game on short, in which position he exhibits the same qualities of coolness and absolute co-ordination of eye and muscles which gave victory in the tennis tournament. Marcellus Doll caught a good game.

For Central, Raymond Camargo started pitching, but on account of an injured arm stepped out and Mike Brown took the mound. Brown pitched a good game with five strikeouts, allowing only four hits. The score was 13 to 8 in favor of the Tigers and was won chiefly on errors.

The other game of the league series between the Lions and Pacific avenue playground team gave a victory to the Lions by a score of 12 to 5. Clifford Van Osdale and Merritt Brown as battery brought their team to its first victory. They were given excellent support.

Bill Morse, who knows baseball in its every intricacy, has been umpiring the games at the Union high school playground. The junior league players have the utmost confidence in his capacity and honor. His decisions are always final and invariably give satisfaction.

BRITISH IMPERIAL DEVELOPMENT

At one time, under W. E. Gladstone, the British empire came near to losing her colonies in some parts of the world, just as she lost her American colonies by the crassest folly and the densest stupidity. It was Gladstone's idea that the colonies should be cast adrift to face conditions for themselves. One result of that policy was the Boer war. A glance at United South Africa, with its large union of British and Boers, enjoying autonomy and loyalty fighting for the empire, is not a more significant sight than that of Sir Robert Borden, premier of the Dominion of Canada, attending a meeting of the British cabinet as a valued and honored advisor, likely in the near future to be a member of a larger Imperial cabinet.

There is no doubt that an Imperial union of Great Britain and all her colonies is a matter of the immediate future. Its formation will be a matter of great significance to the world. It will mean the consolidation of a world-wide power, different entirely from the somewhat circumscribed domination of the British island government over the many offshoots of the mother country.

Kipling once wrote a poem, "Our Lady of the Snows," in which he represented Canada as saying, "Daughter am I in my mother's house, but mistress in mine own." That represents to a certain extent the position of Britain's colonies at the present time. When the consolidation of the empire arrives and the Imperial cabinet is formed, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and others will have their representatives in the world-wide cabinet that will decide the important questions of a world-wide empire.

That Canada should be recognized at this time is little wonder. Those loyal sons of the empire, to the number of 75,000, are now fighting the battles of that empire and 75,000 more are busy drilling in Canada to fill the gaps the war makes in the ranks of the Dominion's soldiers. In similar manner the fine forces of Australia and New Zealand are battling in Egypt and in Turkey for the upholding of the cause in which they believe; while South Africa has already fought successfully the battles of the empire and crushed disaffection within her own borders, adding some 450,000 square miles of territory to the United States of South Africa.

After all that consolidation, a closer union of the units of the empire and an Imperial cabinet in which will sit on equal terms representatives of every offshoot of Britain in the world, is only a matter of a very short time. The whole world is in the process of revolution. Changes of the most radical nature may be expected and at this juncture it is fortunate that the British constitution has so much flexibility that there need be no difficulty in admitting the new members of the cabinet. As a matter of fact, the British cabinet has no statutory existence, being only a political evolution just as the new cabinet will be. Thus are the weak hands and feeble knees of the world confirmed and the halting set to walk straight, as the visions of wise men at which fools laughed are being fulfilled.

AT THE END OF AN AGE

This is the end of an age. In Hebrew, Greek and Latin alike the word that signifies "world" also signifies "age." Thus what is often translated the "end of the world" means simply the "end of the age." Taken in this sense we are really at the end of one of the "ages" of the world. The world is closing up one era and entering on a new epoch. It was so in the time of the Napoleonic wars when many good people seeing the awful slaughter that had been going on for so many years in Europe thought that the "end of the world" must be at hand and so spoke and preached.

All life is a matter of evolution and everything at present points to the fact that the world has just passed through a formative period preparatory to the great war, which is breaking up combinations of the past and fitting the world for a distinct departure in the future.

Looking at the great war philosophically it is seen that the world is hardly civilized yet. We are living in the early dawn of a higher civilization and of a good time to come. The nation that lives up to its ideals and abides by the teaching of the conscience within, preparing itself for whatever may come, will never be suffered to go down amid the crash of nations. This country, with high ideals, can, by living up to them, whether war comes to it or not, evolve itself into a still higher life. A people indoctrinated with a sense of obligation to the good of all, learning that they do not live to themselves, that their last measure of devotion is to their country and that their private vocation is and ought to be public service, is certain to endure, no matter to what tests it may be subjected.

SHUTTING OUT THE CHINESE EGG

Some years ago a witty French writer in one of the comic journals of Paris gave an amusing account of a supposed visit to Li Hung Chang in Pekin, in the course of which the Frenchman was invited to dinner. One of the "pieces de resistance" was eggs. The host had them of every "vintage." Eggs dating from the days of the Tai-Ping rebellion, eggs preserved in antediluvian mud and coming to the table black and odoriferous with the aroma of centuries clinging around them. The hospitable Chinese produced his greatest rarities for the Frenchman and regretted that his guest did not seem to appreciate the "bouquet" of the rare products of his storage cellars. Whatever truth may be in the story, some suspicion of Chinese eggs seems always to have been lingering in the Occidental mind, so that when the Oriental cleverly thought to land his egg product on the shore of California and make a fortune, he was disagreeably surprised to find that there was a prejudice against the trade that was exceedingly detrimental to the Chinaman's plan of campaign.

Eggs are purchased by local exporters in China at 40 cents per gross. Fancy the profit to be made! As much as 102,000 dozen were sent to San Francisco, 311,000 dozen to Seattle, 521,000 dozen to Tacoma. Those eggs were sold to the importer at four and three-tenths cents a dozen. They were even sent to New York frozen in tins.

It looked for a long time as though the business was going to be enormously profitable, but local producers became alarmed and Oregon, Washington and California passed laws making it mandatory that all eggs from foreign countries be stamped "imported." That killed the trade. The eggs could not be sold.

When it is learned that the territory from which the eggs came has a producing capacity of 75,000 per day and that the handling capacity of the importers was about one-third of that amount it is easily seen that the trouble was merely competition with the native American product and not any extra age in the Chinese egg. In the end almost every trouble in this world, troubles in a nation's trade or international trade, comes down to the question, "Who gets the rake-off?" It is commercial. Looking deeply into the war question it will be found that it also originates in commercialism.

tence, two of the youths will be hanged in September and the third in October.

Louis Bundy, at the age of seventeen, beat to death a messenger boy in Los Angeles and robbed him.

Earl Loomis, in his eighteenth year, shot down Mrs. Marie Holcroft while in the act of robbing her ice cream parlor in Sacramento.

Charles Oxnam, seventeen, shot and killed William Alexander in Los Angeles while he and Glenn Witt, a pal, were trying to burglarize the Alexander home. The governor must decide if it is right to hang them.

Never before in the history of the state has a similar condition arisen. Never before have three minors been under death sentence at the same time. In fact, the prison officials find few instances where the state has executed a minor.

The fact that Governor Johnson has granted a three months' reprieve to Bundy indicates he is giving the case serious consideration.

BURBANK

W. E. Lawrence purchased the F. C. Foster jewelry store and business last week and is now identified with Burbank's progressive businessmen. Mr. Lawrence is a young man of very pleasing personality and has had six years of experience in the business and is an expert workman. He has a host of friends here who, with this paper, wish him success in his new undertaking. He has a good location and will at once put in an up-to-date stock of merchandise.

Mr. and Mrs. Stancliff and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Galvin and baby, Jack, made a trip to Santa Monica Sunday in the Stancliff auto and enjoyed the pleasures of that seaside resort. Sid F. Foster of Pasadena is spending a couple of weeks in Burbank and is made royally welcome by our young people.

M. M. Livingstone and family have gone to Newport Beach for a short vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. West and son and Mrs. Martha Thompson spent the week-end on Catalina island and report an enjoyable trip.

F. C. Foster, who has conducted Burbank's jewelry store for the past six years, left Monday for Wisconsin points, where he will enjoy a well-earned vacation.

Mr. Bravender of Lake avenue has rented his ranch home there and with his family has moved to Long Beach.

E. B. Fowler made his regular motor trip to Hueneme Beach last Sunday to visit with his wife. City Trustee Hogle accompanied him to enjoy the ocean breezes, while J. H. Swall and family made up another machine load for the same place.

Miss Mary Gonter spent Sunday with the young ladies of the Pettit ranch.

Burbank needs an undertaking establishment. Not that any of our residents will ever need his services, as our city is too healthful for that, but the passing stranger, the victim of automobile or railway accidents, make such a business necessary. Another reason might be added that our people are so loyal to their town that they absolutely would live forever rather than patronize an out-of-town establishment.

Harry Dunning met with rather a severe accident one day last week when the horse on which he was riding, and driving other horses, slipped on the wet paving and fell on his side, catching Harry's foot in the stirrup, with the result that three toes of the right foot were broken and the foot badly bruised.

Managers of the Eastland appear to have perverted a popular rule to make it read "Profit First."

MONTE VISTA

W. W. Eagler transacted business in Los Angeles Monday.

S. D. Percy and Arthur Wells transacted business in Los Angeles Monday.

Mrs. O. P. Morgan and Miss McQuinston of Los Angeles are making a two weeks' visit at the Monte Vista tavern.

Mrs. Remick and Miss Faith of Glendale are domiciled for two weeks at the Monte Vista tavern.

Willis Eagler went to Ocean Park this week to call on old friends and enjoy the sea breezes until Saturday.

Miss N. Fair of Pasadena is spending a month's vacation at the Monte Vista tavern.

Mrs. S. D. Percy and family left Thursday of last week to enjoy an outing at Long Beach.

During these summer months many tourists are taking advantage of the excellent stage service between Monte Vista, Littlelands and Los Angeles and Glendale. The following time table will prove of advantage to strangers: To Glendale—7:30, 9:30, 2:00, 5:00 and 7:00. From Glendale—8:30, 11:30, 3:30, 6:00 and 12:00. To Los Angeles—7:15, 10:50, 3:40 and 7:00. From Los Angeles—9:15, 1:15, 5:30 and 11:30.

W. W. Eagler and son of Ocean Park recently purchased the Monte Vista park stand of H. A. Brown and will also operate a barber shop in the building next door. Ice cream, candies, cigars, tobacco, soda water, etc., will be kept in stock at the stand and the Messrs. Eagler without doubt will enjoy the same generous patronage accorded the former owner. Mr. Brown has not fully made up his mind as to what he will do, but will probably remain in Sunland at least a month before engaging in business at an outside point.

Wm. H. Haflinger of Summit avenue, Monte Vista, is finishing a two-flat apartment, with ruble stone and tile roof, which makes a decidedly picturesque appearance. Mr. Haflinger is a local contractor who has erected a large number of homes in both Monte Vista and Littlelands. He is building the new apartment in order to help satisfy the demand of Los Angeles and outside people who enjoy spending a few months or a few weeks each year enjoying the climate and scenery at Monte Vista.
